

About This Site

This page is a brief description of the new site, and contains instructions on how to add new content. How do I add calendar dates (events), news items, web pages, blogs? What should I change the object state to?

Welcome to the New Site!

The old technology page is still available at <http://server.910.buffalo.k12.ny.us/oldtechnology/>

Suggestions and tips on using the site:
Please use Firefox for Editing as it works best with the page editor. Safari (Macintosh) generally works best for viewing the site.	www.getfirefox.com
Use the Live Search feature in the upper right hand corner of the site to quickly search for a topic, keyword, tutorial, curriculum idea, or any thing else which might be on the site..
Use the Site Map feature (upper right hand corner) to see a map of the structure of the web site. Find out where stuff is!	• • • • •

The New Web Service Product: Plone 2.1

Why switch? We hope that Plone 2.1 will give us the following benefits:

- It has a clean interface that has been tested and designed for ease of use and 508 access.
- Powerful search capabilities (including a "live typing" site wide search box) and smart folders will make it easy to find instructional technology information.
- A great support community.
- Powerful built in features and third party add-ons.